

Ajax Axe: Bio

Ajax Axe is a sculptor and installation artist interested in the intersection between imagination, story and identity. She creates work that explores and deconstructs different dominant narratives in society and ideas about the future of civilization. She lived in East Africa and Colombia prior to moving to Aspen and still returns to Kenya and Sudan regularly. Besides making sculptures, she is currently developing imagination workshops for adults in which participants will be able to reimagine the world around them and their vision of the future of their community.
